

Ethics Debrief

As stated in the initial information and consent form, the aim of this experiment was to investigate if the use of a Novel Interaction will become more instinctive and socially acceptable over time. I was particularly interested to understand if this was due to interaction method become easier to use and that if there were more uses found over this time impacted the social acceptability.

If you decide you would no longer like to be part of the experiment and for your data to be removed or have any questions related to the experiment or the applications it may infer, please contact me:

(Robbie Thomson, 2314819t@student.gla.ac.uk)

or my supervisor:

(Euan Freeman, euane.freeman@glasgow.ac.uk).